Your guide to Pure Cinema

Welcome to Studio One Dance Academy's Pure Cinema. This digital edition brings together the people, preparation and stories behind the concert, followed by a page for each of the 42 dances.

Begin with the foreword and introduction, or go straight to the running order. Tap a dance title to open its page. Use FIND YOUR DANCE, the act label or the PDF bookmarks to return to the index.

The programme follows the sequence in two acts, with a 15-minute interval after number 23, Michael Jackson. Dancer names are listed with their individual dances. Jericho has an additional cast page.

The moment before the lights

A familiar melody can return us to a scene in seconds. We remember the atmosphere, the person beside us, or a character whose courage stayed with us. Cinema gives those memories a shape. A live performance lets us encounter them again through the presence of another person.

Pure Cinema begins in that space between recognition and discovery. Its inspirations are familiar, but the dancers bring their own attention and character to the stage. There is pleasure in recognising a reference, and just as much in noticing a detail we have never seen before.

The moment before the lights

For a student, stepping into that light can be a significant moment. The audience sees a performance; the dancer also carries the work that made it possible. An entrance becomes a decision. A phrase becomes something shared.

As the programme unfolds, look for the individual within the ensemble and the small exchanges between performers. Let a familiar story open into something unexpected. Thank you for being here to meet it.

Paula & Jillian

Cinema, in movement

Pure Cinema gathers 42 dances inspired by screen stories, musical theatre and popular performance. The programme moves between imagined worlds and recognisable images, giving each number a different setting and a place in the larger sequence.

The connection may begin with a piece of music, a character, or the feeling of a scene. Movement gives that starting point a new form. A familiar image becomes a gesture; a musical phrase creates space for a group to move together.

Cinema, in movement

The programme follows the same idea. Colour, lettering and photographic frames change from one dance to the next, while the running order keeps the afternoon easy to follow. Dancer names belong to the number in which they appear.

The two acts invite changes of pace and perspective. You can read each feature on its own, or follow the show from the first entrance to the closing number. The story of this edition belongs to the dancers who bring these references into the room.

FROM THE OWNERS

A note to our community

Dear dancers, families and friends,
Welcome to Pure Cinema. We are delighted to gather at Die Bron
Theatre and to share this concert with you. For us, a concert is an opportunity to see the work of the studio reach beyond the rehearsal room and become part of a shared afternoon.

Our hope for this production is that every dancer finds a moment to inhabit fully, whether they are appearing for the first time or bringing years of experience to the stage.

A note to our community

There is a great deal of work between the first attempt and the performance you see today. We want our dancers to recognise that work in themselves and to enjoy what they can give to an audience.

To our teaching and production teams, thank you for your care. To families and friends, thank you for making room for dance in the ordinary routines of life.

To our dancers, we hope you feel the support around you. Take your place, listen to one another, and enjoy the performance. We are proud to share this occasion with you.

With warm wishes,

Paula Buitendag

Jillian Jooste

A place to begin

Studio One Dance Academy brings students together through dance, with classes across multiple locations and disciplines for different ages and levels.

Progress takes different forms for different dancers. The studio is a place to learn movement carefully and discover what it can express.

Pure Cinema is the academy's biennial full-academy concert. It brings dancers from across its locations and programmes into one performance, celebrating the work that happens in class and the people who share it.

We hope this edition becomes a reminder of the work, friendships and discoveries that belong to this season.

The teaching team

Meet the people who guide Studio One's dancers in class and on stage.

A woman with dark hair tied back, wearing a red and black zip-up jacket and black jeans, is captured in a dynamic dance pose. She is in the foreground, with her arms raised and hands clasped behind her head. The background features a large, pixelated mural of a man in a yellow shirt and a woman in a purple dress. The text 'Step Up' is written in a large, white, cursive font across the middle of the image, with 'WITH' in a bold, white, sans-serif font below it, and 'Amy Strichen' in a large, white, cursive font at the bottom.

How a show takes shape

A performance takes shape long before the first entrance. Dancers learn movement, listen for cues and practise the timing that lets a group move together.

In Pure Cinema, familiar films, shows and music give each dance a starting point. Costumes and stage images help establish a world; the performers make it their own through the movement.

The work on stage is supported by people the audience may never see. Teaching, preparation, backstage coordination and the practical help of families all have a place in bringing the afternoon together.

A SPECIAL THANK YOU

Before we wrap up, a few very special thank-yous!

To our generous sponsors, Magerman Attorneys, Haute Cabrière, Superga, Juice Box, Nude Coffee and Immaculate Hospitality Solutions, thank you for your incredible support!

To Stacey, our talented seamstress, who somehow managed to create over 300 costumes — you're an absolute superstar!

To Ingrid, our wonderful photographer, thank you for capturing all these special memories.

A SPECIAL THANK YOU

To Bertus, thank you for making everything look and sound amazing!

And to Rob, our behind-the-scenes creative genius, Thank You!

To all the Studio One Teachers, thank you for the hours upon hours of passion.

And finally, to all our parents, families and supporters — thank you for showing up, cheering loudly and making these moments so special for our dancers.

We hope you've loved Pure Cinema as much as we've loved sharing it with you!

People who make room

Support for a concert can take many forms, from a specialist skill to a contribution that helps a costume reach the stage. These pages recognise the partners and supporters whose involvement has been confirmed for Pure Cinema.

Thank you to the businesses and individuals supporting the concert. Your contributions help the dancers bring their work to the stage.
